SENATOR GEORGE BEGINS HIS SPEECH ON THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Republican Senators to Meet in Secret Caucus, and to Drink Cold Tea in the Senate Chamber. The House Committee on the President's Message.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Senator George played a clever trick on his Republican colleagues today. He has been waiting for Friday for a chance to make a speech on the President's message in reply to the attacks made by Edmunds, Hale, Sherman, and Hoar. The Republicans did not care to have the debate continued on Monday, however, so they turned the general political debate under cover of the Sunday City bill. It continued all day yesterday, and started in with to-day, when Mr. George put an end to it for the time being. The Mississippi Senator had been sitting for two days anxiously awaiting his chance. His voluminous manuscript was carefully arranged in a portfolio, and his law books and references were placed by his side. The Republicans kept the talk down to the subject of Democratic favoritism and extravagance in the interior. Finally, however, a happy thought struck him, and, being recognized by the Vice President, he said a few words about the subject in hand, and then proceeded to make his elaborate speech. His remarks have been the subject of the discussion, the Republican Senators may decide to have it continued to-morrow.

The thrifty capitalist has a stand in the corridors of the Capitol near the main door of the House, where he sells cigars, railroad tickets, relics, trinkets, photographs, and almost everything else. It is doing a thriving business, and now carries a large stock of the latest different styles during the summer, but the latest has taken hold of the Congressmen with great strength. The Vice President, the result. This badge is a little bronze affair, in the shape of a chair, and on the seat is a picture of the President. Senator Gorman to-day replied to Senator Allison's speech of yesterday regarding the increased appropriations under the Democratic Administration. Mr. Gorman expressed his amazement at the statement made by Mr. Allison showing a difference of $95,000,000 of expenditures in favor of Mr. Arthur's Administration as against the Republican Administration. He stated that the Republican Administration had increased the expenditures of the Government by $95,000,000, and that the Democratic Administration had decreased them by $95,000,000. The House to-day passed a joint resolution to provide temporarily (until Sept. 15) for the expenditures of the Government. Mr. Forney of Alabama, who offered the resolution, explained that it was an appropriation bill, and that it was necessary to pass it before the adjournment of the House. The resolution was passed by a vote of 100 to 0.

Chairman Perry Belmont of the House Foreign Affairs Committee is still absent. He is quite disturbed over the fact that the retention subject is being arranged by the committee before his arrival. He sent an agent to the telegram here to-day asking that a place be saved for him on the subcommittee, and that the committee be held until he arrives. This action was not taken, but, after the adjournment of the House, the committee was held until he arrives.

HUNTING FOR SULLIVAN.

KELVIN WANTS TO KNOW WHY JOHN DODGETT CHALLENGE HIM.

He is Spelling for a Fight with the Prize of Boston—Charles Mitchell and He Will Give Exhibitions in American Next Fall. BOSTON, Aug. 29.—John Sullivan came into town to-day to find John L. Sullivan. At the Herald office he said to a reporter: "I haven't heard from Sullivan since I got home. Before I left England I got an impression from what I read in the papers that Sullivan was worth millions of money, and that on my arrival here I would find that he had made deposits with every newspaper of prominence in America. Indeed, I expected that Sullivan would have an account on his newspaper that he had made a deposit on my closing a match at once. I am somewhat amazed at the silence. Why does not Sullivan speak? The only answer that I can see is that he has no backers. In that case I shall have nothing more to say. I always thought well of John, and he always thought well of me; at least I thought so. I was in the front of the line through the Herald to meet him, and I was in the front of the line through the Herald to meet him, and I was in the front of the line through the Herald to meet him." But when he and Pat Sheehy reached Ball's more on their tour they both talked to me and about me in the most pleasant manner. They asked me if I authorized the statements published by the Herald, and when I told them I did, the worst abuse was heaped on me. They then wanted to make a match for a fight. At first I told them I didn't want such a fight; but I didn't know that I could get such a fight. I was in the front of the line through the Herald to meet him, and I was in the front of the line through the Herald to meet him, and I was in the front of the line through the Herald to meet him.
